

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN

DEEANNA CAMPBELL,
on behalf of herself and others similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

Case No.: 21-cv-287

NATIONAL ENTERPRISE SYSTEMS, INC.,

Class Action Complaint

Defendant,

Jury Trial Demanded

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This is a class action brought by Deeanna Campbell (“Plaintiff”) under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (“FDCPA”), 15 U.S.C. § 1692 et seq., for the benefit of Wisconsin consumers whose private information regarding their alleged consumer debts was disclosed to an unauthorized third party, in connection with the collection of their debts, by National Enterprise Systems, Inc. (“Defendant”).

2. Congress enacted the FDCPA in 1977 to “eliminate abusive debt collection practices by debt collectors, to insure that those debt collectors who refrain from using abusive debt collection practices are not competitively disadvantaged,” 15 U.S.C. § 1692(e), and in response to “abundant evidence of the use of abusive, deceptive, and unfair debt collection practices by many debt collectors,” which Congress found to have contributed “to the number of personal bankruptcies, to marital instability, to the loss of jobs, and to invasions of individual privacy.” Id., § 1692(a).

3. As the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (“CFPB”—the federal agency tasked with enforcing the FDCPA—once explained, “[h]armful debt collection practices remain a significant concern today. In fact, the CFPB receives more consumer complaints about debt collection practices than about any other issue.”¹

4. Pertinent here, section 1692c(b) of the FDCPA, titled “Communication with third parties,” provides that—

Except as provided in section 1692b of this title, without the prior consent of the consumer given directly to the debt collector, or the express permission of a court of competent jurisdiction, or as reasonably necessary to effectuate a postjudgment judicial remedy, a debt collector may not communicate, in connection with the collection of any debt, with any person other than the consumer, his attorney, a consumer reporting agency if otherwise permitted by law, the creditor, the attorney of the creditor, or the attorney of the debt collector.

15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b).

5. The provision that section 1692c(b) cross-references—section 1692b—governs the manner in which a debt collector may communicate “with any person other than the consumer for the purpose of acquiring location information.” 15 U.S.C. § 1692b.

6. The FDCPA thus broadly prohibits a debt collector from communicating with anyone other than the consumer “in connection with the collection of any debt,” subject to several carefully crafted exceptions—some enumerated in section 1692c(b), and others in section 1692b—none of which are applicable here.

7. Despite this prohibition—one designed to protect consumers’ privacy—debt collectors, including Defendant, often send information regarding consumers’ alleged debts to third-party mail vendors.

¹ See Brief for the CFPB as Amicus Curiae, ECF No. 14, p. 10, Hernandez v. Williams, Zinman, & Parham, P.C., No. 14-15672 (9th Cir. Aug. 20, 2014), http://www.ftc.gov/system/files/documents/amicus_briefs/hernandez-v.williams-zinman-parham-p.c./140821briefhernandez1.pdf (last visited April 28, 2021).

8. These third-party mail vendors use information provided by debt collectors—such as the consumer’s name and address, the name of the creditor to whom the debt is allegedly owed, the name of the original creditor, and the amount of the alleged debt—to fashion, print, and mail debt collection letters to consumers.

9. This unnecessary and illegal practice exposes private information regarding alleged debts to third parties not exempted by the FDCPA.

10. Upon information and belief, Defendant routinely communicates with, and provides protected information regarding consumer debts to, third-party mail vendors, in connection with the collection of a debt, that are not authorized to receive such information, in violation of the FDCPA.

11. Plaintiff seeks relief for herself and on behalf of similarly situated Wisconsin consumers to whom Defendant sent debt collection letters that were prepared, printed, or mailed by a third-party mail vendor.

Parties

12. Plaintiff is a natural person who at all relevant times resided in Sawyer County, Wisconsin.

13. Plaintiff was obligated, or allegedly obligated, to pay a debt owed or due, or asserted to be owed or due, a creditor other than Defendant.

14. Plaintiff’s obligation, or alleged obligation, owed or due, or asserted to be owed or due, arises from a transaction in which the money, property, insurance, or services that are the subject of the transaction were incurred primarily for personal, family, or household purposes—namely, a personal credit card (the “Debt”).

15. Plaintiff is a “consumer” as defined by 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(3).

16. Defendant is a debt collection company with its principal offices in Solon, Ohio.

17. Defendant “was established in 1987 by Ernest R. Pollak, as a full-service debt collection agency.”²

18. Defendant is an entity that at all relevant times was engaged, by use of the mails and telephone, in the business of attempting to collect a “debt” from Plaintiff, as defined by 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(5).

19. At the time Defendant attempted to collect the Debt from Plaintiff, the Debt was in default, or Defendant treated the Debt as if it were in default from the time that Defendant acquired it for collection.

20. Defendant uses instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails in a business the principal purpose of which is the collection of any debts, or to regularly collect or attempt to collect, directly or indirectly, debts owed or due, or asserted to be owed or due, another.

21. Defendant is a “debt collector” as defined by the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(6).

22. Defendant identified itself as a debt collector to Plaintiff in its correspondence to her.

Jurisdiction and Venue

23. This Court has jurisdiction under 15 U.S.C. § 1692k(d) and 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

24. Venue is proper before this Court under 28 U.S.C. § 1331(b) as a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims occurred in this district.

25. Defendant mailed a debt collection letter to Plaintiff in this district.

Factual Allegations

26. On or about August 16, 2020, Defendant caused a written communication to be sent to Plaintiff in connection with the collection of the Debt.

27. A redacted copy of the August 16, 2020 communication to Plaintiff is attached as Exhibit A.

28. The August 16 letter disclosed the balance of the Debt and Plaintiff's home address. Ex. A.

29. The August 16 letter also identified the creditor to whom Defendant alleged the Debt was owed, as well as a description of the Debt, and the last four digits of the account number. Id.

30. The August 16 letter identified Defendant as a debt collector and stated: "This communication is from a debt collector. This is an attempt to collect a debt and any information obtained will be used for that purpose." Id.

31. Upon information and belief, Defendant did not print the August 16 letter.

32. Rather, upon information and belief, Defendant, in connection with the collection of a debt, provided private information regarding Plaintiff and the Debt, including Plaintiff's name, address, the amount of the Debt, and other private details regarding the Debt, to a third-party mail vendor.

33. The third-party mail vendor then printed the August 16, 2020 communication that was sent to Plaintiff.

34. The return address on the August 16 communication does not match Defendant's address.

35. The return address on the August 16 communication includes a P.O. Box in Oaks, Pennsylvania that appears to be associated with RevSpring, a third-party mail vendor.

36. RevSpring maintains offices in Oaks, Pennsylvania at the same zip code as that in the return address of the August 16 letter.

37. “RevSpring processes more than one billion communications annually.”³

38. RevSpring markets itself as having “[s]tate-of-the-art address processing and return mail services....”⁴

39. RevSpring’s website notes that over 50% of accounts receivables management organizations use RevSpring.⁵

40. Defendant does not have an office in Oaks, Pennsylvania.

41. Plaintiff did not provide consent to Defendant to communicate or share any information about the Debt with RevSpring or any other third-party mail vendor.

Class Action Allegations

42. Plaintiff brings this action as a class action pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and (b)(3) on behalf of a class consisting of:

All persons (a) with a Wisconsin address, (b) to which National Enterprise Systems, Inc. sent, or caused to be sent, a debt collection communication, (c) in connection with the collection of a consumer debt, (d) in the one year preceding the date of this complaint through the date of class certification, (e) that was prepared or mailed by a third-party vendor.

⁵ <https://revspringinc.com/financial-services/> (last visited April 28, 2021).

43. Excluded from the class is Defendant, its officers and directors, members of their immediate families and their legal representatives, heirs, successors, or assigns, and any entity in which Defendant has or had controlling interests.

44. The class satisfies Rule 23(a)(1) because, upon information and belief, it is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

45. The exact number of class members is unknown to Plaintiff at this time and can only be determined through appropriate discovery.

46. The class is ascertainable because it is defined by reference to objective criteria.

47. In addition, upon information and belief, the names and addresses of all members of the proposed class can be identified through business records maintained by Defendant.

48. The class satisfies Rules 23(a)(2) and (3) because Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the members of the class.

49. To be sure, Plaintiff's claims and those of the members of the class originate from the same practice utilized by Defendant—the sending of personal, private information regarding their alleged debts to a third-party mail vendor—and Plaintiff thus possesses the same interests and has suffered the same injuries as each member of the class.

50. Plaintiff satisfies Rule 23(a)(4) because she will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the class and has retained counsel experienced and competent in class action litigation.

51. Plaintiff has no interests that are contrary to or in conflict with the members of the class that she seeks to represent.

52. A class action is superior to all other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy since, upon information and belief, joinder of all members is impracticable.

53. Furthermore, as the damages suffered by individual members of the class may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation could make it impracticable for the members of the class to individually redress the wrongs done to them.

54. There will be no unusual difficulty in the management of this action as a class action.

55. Issues of law and fact common to the members of the class predominate over any questions that may affect only individual members, in that Defendant has acted on grounds generally applicable to the class.

56. Among the issues of law and fact common to the class:

- a. Defendant's violations of the FDCPA as alleged herein;
- b. whether Defendant is a debt collector as defined by the FDCPA;
- c. whether Defendant's communications with third-party mail vendors regarding consumers' alleged debts violate the FDCPA;
- d. the availability of declaratory relief;
- e. the availability of actual damages and statutory penalties; and
- f. the availability of attorneys' fees and costs.

57. Absent a class action, Defendant's violations of the law will be allowed to proceed without a full, fair, judicially supervised remedy.

Count I: Violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b)

58. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges each and every factual allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 57 above.

59. Pertinent here, the FDCPA at 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b) provides that “a debt collector may not communicate, in connection with the collection of any debt, with any person other than the consumer, her attorney, a consumer reporting agency if otherwise permitted by law, the creditor, the attorney of the creditor, or the attorney of the debt collector.”

60. By communicating regarding the Debt, including by disclosing, among other things, the existence of the Debt, the amount owed, Plaintiff’s home address, and the alleged creditor, with a third-party mail vendor, Defendant violated 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b). See Hunstein v. Preferred Collection & Mgmt. Servs., Inc., --- F.3d ----, 2021 WL 1556069 (11th Cir. Apr. 21, 2021).

61. The harm suffered by Plaintiff is particularized in that the violative initial debt collection letter at issue was sent to her personally and regarded her personal alleged Debt.

62. And the violation of Plaintiff’s right not to have her private information shared with third parties is a concrete injury sufficient to confer standing.

63. To be sure, the harm Plaintiff alleges here—disclosure of private information of a personal, sensitive nature to third-party vendors—is precisely the type of abusive debt collection practice that the FDCPA was designed to prevent. See 15 U.S.C. § 1692(a) (“Abusive debt collection practices contribute to the number of personal bankruptcies, to marital instability, to the loss of jobs, and to invasions of individual privacy.”) (emphasis added).

64. Additionally, by communicating with a third party in connection with the collection of the Debt, Defendant harmed Plaintiff by invading her privacy.

65. That is, by communicating with a third party in connection with the collection of the Debt, Defendant harmed Plaintiff by disclosing private facts about her and the Debt.

66. Defendant breached its duties under the FDCPA through its failure to keep Plaintiff's and other class members' personal financial information confidential and therefore intruded upon those individuals' privacy interests. See Todd v. Collecto, Inc., 731 F.3d 734, 738 (7th Cir. 2013).

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff respectfully requests relief and judgment as follows:

- a. Determining that this action is a proper class action under Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure;
- b. Adjudging and declaring that Defendant violated 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b);
- c. Awarding Plaintiff and members of the class statutory damages pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1692k;
- d. Awarding members of the class actual damages incurred, as applicable, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1692k;
- e. Enjoining Defendant from future violations of 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b) with respect to Plaintiff and the class;
- f. Awarding Plaintiff and members of the class their reasonable costs and attorneys' fees incurred in this action, including expert fees, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1692k and Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure;
- g. Awarding Plaintiff and the members of the class any pre-judgment and post-judgment interest as may be allowed under the law; and
- h. Awarding other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

Dated: April 28, 2021
